A pattern:

On a clock there are four little lines in between two big lines. The little lines represents one minute per line. Between two big lines there are four minutes. The pattern is there are one big line then four little lines then one big line and four little lines and so on.

Another pattern:

In music there a lines and spaces between the lines you put the notes either on the lines or between them. Each line or space represents a note. The pattern is that there is a line then a space a line then a space and so on.
